ISDA, S&P Global Market Intelligence and Linklaters | CreateiQ Launch Integration to Streamline End-to-End Negotiation of Derivatives Documentation

ISDA, S&P Global Market Intelligence and Linklaters | CreateiQ have announced the launch of an integration between ISDA Create and S&P Global Market Intelligence's Counterparty Manager service, aimed at simplifying client onboarding and contract lifecycle management by allowing the end-to-end negotiation of key derivatives contracts on one platform.

It's well understood that people should hope for the best but be prepared for the worst. When it comes to the derivatives market, the ISDA Master Agreement does just that. Many of its most important clauses set out the steps firms should take if the worst does occur and a trading counterparty fails. These provisions have proved to be robust over three decades, but practical challenges can still arise, particularly when it comes to delivering critical notices to counterparties. ISDA has been working with members to consider possible solutions – and we think technology could be the answer.
